The Molad: Sunday night, 9:30 and 10 portions.
The moon may be sanctified until Monday, the 13th, 3:52 p.m.¹

The first day of Rosh Chodesh is on Tuesday. “When Adar enters, we increase our joy.” The second day of Rosh Chodesh is on Wednesday.

Adar 4, Shabbos Parshas T’rumah.

Adar 11, Shabbos Parshas T’tzaveh, Parshas Zachor.

In the Morning Service, two Torah scrolls are taken out. Seven men are given aliyos for the weekly reading from the first scroll, and a half-Kaddish is recited. The Maftir, the concluding passage from Parshas Ki Seitzei (D’varim 25:17-19) which mentions the command to remember what Amalek did, is read from the second scroll.

The Rebbe instructed that the word זכר in the phrase עמלק זכר should be read twice: first with a tzeirei (zeicher) and then with a segol (zeker).

The Haftorah begins Koh amar A-donai Tz’vaos pakadti (I Shmuel 15:2-34).

The passage Av harachamim is recited.

Adar 13, Monday, the Fast of Esther.

In the Morning Service, the chazan should include the blessing Aneinu between the blessings Goel Yisrael and R’faeinu. See the section for the Fast of Gedaliah (Tishrei 3), where more details are mentioned.

After the Sh’moneh Esreh, towards the end of the Tachanun supplications, before Shomer Yisrael, we recite S’liebos, Shomer Yisrael, and the long Avinu Malkeinu, and then the chazan recites a half-Kaddish.

Afterwards, the Torah is taken out, and the passage Vay’chal (Sh’mos 32:11-14, 34:1-10) is read, provided there are at least three people in the congregation fasting. A person who is not fasting should not be called up to the Torah, if, however, he was given an aliya in the Morning Service, he should accept it.

Before the Afternoon Service, everyone should commemorate the half-shekel that was given when the Beis HaMikdash was standing by giving three coins which are half of the local currency (e.g., a half-dollar in the U.S.). These donations should be given to the poor.

A charity box should be put out for Kupas Rabbi Meir Baal Haness, the charitable fund that supports the poor in Eretz Yisrael, so that the practice of recalling the Beis HaMikdash is associated with the benefit of the poor of Eretz Yisrael.

In the Afternoon Service, the passage Vay’chel is read again. See the section for the Fast of Gedaliah (Tishrei 3), where more details are mentioned.

The person receiving the third aliya recites the Haftorah (Y’shayahu 55:6-56:8).

The passage Aneinu is included in the Sh’moneh Esreh by the congregation and the chazan.

We do not recite Tachanun or Avinu Malkeinu.

Adar 14, Tuesday, Purim.

In the Evening Service, we include the passage V’al hanissim in the Sh’moneh Esreh. Any announcement to remind the congregation about this addition must be made before the Evening Service.

If one forgets to add this passage, but remembered before mentioning G-d’s name in the blessing Hatov shimcha, one should go back and add it. If one does not remember until afterwards, one should continue without adding it (see the section for Chanukah for more details).

After the Sh’moneh Esreh, a full Kaddish (including Tiskabel) is recited.

We then proceed to the Megillah reading.

The reader (and the listeners) should fold their Megillah like a letter, into three parts. The reader recites three blessings: Al mikra megillah, She’asah nissim, and Shebehebeyanu. He should have the intent that all those listening to his blessings and reading fulfill their obligation thereby. The listeners, in turn, should answer Amen to each of the blessings with the same intention.

It is forbidden to make an interruption until the reader concludes the blessing recited afterwards, Harav es riveinu. If the reader or the listener misses one word, he does not fulfill his obligation, and must begin again from the word that was missed.

It is customary for the entire congregation to read four verses out loud: Ish Y'hudi... (2:5), U'Mordechai Yatza... (8:15), La'y'budim... (8:16), and Ki Mordechai... (10:3). Afterwards, the reader repeats them.

We “strike Haman” at various stages in the reading (when he is described with a “title,” such as ba'agagi, ba'ru, or the like).

The names of Haman’s ten sons (9:7-9) should be read in one breath. This includes the preceding words chameisb mei’os isb and the following word aseres. These should be read by the congregation first. At this time, the children should make noise, as we do when Haman’s name is read with a “title.”

The phrase labarog ule'abid (8:11) should be read again as v’labarog ule’abid. Similarly, the phrase v’isb lo amad bifneihem (9:2) should be read again as v’isb lo amad bifneihem.

When reading the words ba’iggeres bazos (9:26, “this letter”) and iggeres haPurim bazos basheinis (9:29, “this second letter of Purim”), the Megillah should be rustled.

After reading the Megillah, the reader recites the blessing Harav es riveinu, and we say the passage Shoshanas Yaakov. Only afterwards should one roll the Megillah shut. (All of these points should also be observed when reading the Megillah during the day.) Afterwards, the passage V’atah kadosh is recited, followed by a full Kaddish without Tiskabel, Aleinu, and the Mourner’s Kaddish.

In the Morning Service, V'al hanissim is added to the Sh'moneh Esreh. Tachanun is not recited. Afterwards, a half-Kaddish is recited.

Three aliyos are given for the Torah reading, the passage Vayavo Amalek (Sh’mos 17:8-16).

The Rebbe instructed that the word זכר in the phrase זכר עמלק should be read twice: first with a segol (zecher) and then with a zveirei (zeicher).

(If a person did not hear Parshas Zachor, he should have the intention of fulfilling his obligation to remember Amalek by listening to this passage.)

After the Torah reading, a half-Kaddish is recited.

If a person did not give the three half-shekels on the Fast of Esther, he should give them at this opportunity.

The Megillah is read with its three blessings, as was done at night.

When reciting the blessing Shebechevyanu, one should also have in mind the mitzvos of mishloach manos (sending presents of food to friends), matanos la’evyonim (giving presents to the poor), and the Purim feast. On Purim day, the t’fillin of Rashi are worn while the Megillah is heard and read.

After the reading of the Megillah, the reader recites the blessing Harav es riveinu, and we then recite the passage Shoshanas Yaakov. The congregation then concludes the Morning Service, reciting Asbrei, U’va l’Tziyon goel, a full Kaddish, Y’hall’lu (while the Torah scroll is returned to the ark), Beis Yaakov, etc.

(If there is a circumcision to be carried out in the synagogue, the baby should be circumcised before the Megillah reading.)

Mishloach manos: Every person is obligated to send at least two portions of food to at least one other person. A man should send to another man, and a woman should send to another woman.

Matanos la’evyonim: Every person is obligated to give at least one present to at least two poor people. A man may give a present to a poor woman.

A person who gives many portions of food to friends and presents to the poor is praiseworthy. It is, however, more preferable to give generously to the poor than to prepare a lavish Purim feast or to give many portions to one’s friends. “For there is no greater and more beautiful happiness than to bring joy to the hearts of the poor, the orphans, and the widows... Such a person resembles the Al-mighty, who is praised by the prophet 3 for ‘reviving the spirit of the lowly and reviving those with crushed

One should also encourage and strengthen young children in the observance of all the mitzvos of the days of Purim, in particular mishloach manos and matanos la’evyonim.5

The Purim feast: It is customary to recite the Afternoon Service early in the afternoon, and then hold the Purim feast. If a person desires to hold the feast in the morning, he may do so.

Even if the feast extends past nightfall, one should include the passage V’al hanissim in the Grace After Meals, because the feast began during the day.

Adar 15, Wednesday, Shushan Purim.

We do not recite Tachanun.

It is forbidden to fast or to eulogize the deceased on this day. A person should add slightly to his joy and feasting on this day.

We are careful not to eat matzah thirty days before Pesach.

Adar 18, Shabbos Parshas Ki Sisa, Parshas Parah.

In the Morning Service, two Torah scrolls are taken out. Seven men are given aliyos for the weekly reading from the first scroll, and a half-Kaddish is recited. The Maftir, the opening passage from Parshas Chukas (Bamidbar 19:1-22) which describes the procedure of preparing and using the ashes of the red heifer, is read from the second scroll. The Haftorah is Vay’hi d’var A-donai... dibarti v’asisi (Y’chezkel 36:16-36).

We recite Av harachamim.

Adar 25, Shabbos Parshas Vayakhel-P’kudei, Parshas HaChodesh and Shabbos M’varchim.

In the Morning Service, two Torah scrolls are taken out. Seven men are given aliyos for the weekly reading from the first scroll, and a half-Kaddish is recited. The Maftir, a passage from Parshas Bo (Sh’mos 12:1-20) which describes the command to bring the Paschal sacrifice, is read from the second scroll. The Haftorah is Kib Amar... olas tamid

We bless the month of Nissan, announcing Rosh Chodesh, which falls on the coming Thursday.

We do not recite the passage Av haRachamim.

This day marks the birthday of Rebbetzin Chaya Mushka Schneerson, daughter of the Previous Rebbe, Rabbi Yosef Yitzchak Schneersohn, and wife of The Rebbe, Rabbi Menachem Mendel Schneerson, in 5661 (1901).
